Dear ________,

Thanks so much for taking the time to apply to _________. There were a high number of applications for this role, and unfortunately, there wasn't a fit at this time. That being said, we really appreciate the time you took to learn about us — thanks again.

If there's anything we can do to help with your job search, please let us know. And keep an eye on our website [Link to careers page], as we're always updating it with new positions.

We wish you all the best!

Sincerely,

_____________
REFERENCE EMAIL

SUBJECT: Reference check for __________

Dear __________,

Hello there! I’m currently chatting with __________ about a potential role on the ________ team. I’m really enjoying getting to know [him/her/them]!

__________ mentioned that you two had a great time working together at ________. Would you be kind enough to talk more about your experience with them? If so, let me know if any of these times below work for you:

• [Date, time, time zone]
• [Date, time, time zone]
• [Date, time, time zone]

Thanks for your time!

Cheers,

__________

Pro Tip

Don’t forget to add in time zones while suggesting your available time slots. This will help prevent scheduling mishaps as you run through your candidate’s list of references.

OFFER LETTER

SUBJECT: Will you join us?

Dear ________,

Drumroll please... On behalf of everyone at ________, we’re delighted to offer you the role of ________! After getting to know you over these past few [days/weeks/months], it became clear that your talents, goals, and values are a perfect match for our team. It’s such an honor to bring you on board as we work toward [Describe a little bit about your mission].

As our new ________, you will be working alongside ________ to [Describe the goal of your team]. Here are some of the things you’ll get to do on a daily basis: [List out a few of the main duties].

Now, the details: Your starting salary will be ________ per year, which you will be paid every ________. This amount is subject to any deductions and tax withholdings required by law. The role is [exempt/non-exempt] [and employment is on an at-will basis]. [Describe any extra compensation, like stock options].

As a [full-time/part-time] employee, you will be entitled to ________ days of paid vacation in addition to ________ days of sick leave. You’ll also have the option to enroll in our company benefits program, which includes [List out benefits].

We’d love to answer any questions you might have about this offer. We’re aiming for a start date of ________, and it would be great to hear back from you by ________. If this time frame doesn’t work for you, just let us know.

We’re oh-so-excited to welcome you as our newest [Team nickname for employee]! So the real question is, can we order your [laptop/name plaque/team jacket] yet? ;)

Cheers,

______________

Pro Tip

When extending an offer to a candidate, roll out the red carpet. A good rule of thumb is to have someone on your team deliver the news over the phone before sending the email. Beyond the offer letter, get creative with other ways you can woo them. Welcome baskets, personalized gift cards, and signed cards from the team are all great ways to show your candidate how much you want them to join. Another idea is to have the team explain why they’re so stoked about the candidate over the phone or in person. Whatever you do make it meaningful and use it as an opportunity to show off your team’s unique personality. Oh, and have fun with it!

To refresh your memory, our office is located at ___________________, which is close to [Public transportation stops].

We can’t wait for you to start, __________! If you have any questions before your first day, feel free to reach out by email or [Phone number].

See you soon!

Cheers,

__________

Pro Tip

Make sure your new teammate feels super pumped about their first day of work. Sprinkling in details about what they can expect will help put their mind at ease. Also, be sure to take them out for lunch on their start date — it’s a great chance for them to get comfortable with the people they’ll be working with.

Pro Tip

Before sending the announcement email, ask your new employee to answer a few questions that you can include. These icebreakers will speed up the introduction process and help the team find ways to connect with your new hire. Here are some ideas:

• What’s the funniest thing that ever happened to you? The strangest? The coolest?
• What would you do today if someone gave you a million dollars?
• What is one thing you wish people knew about you (but probably don’t)?
• What’s the most interesting thing you learned lately?
